Thought for the Week – from Caroline

The revelation of God's glory in and through us is illustrated in the story of the little boy who was confused by something the pastor had said one Sunday morning in church. When he saw the pastor in the car park, he ran up to him, tugged at his sleeve, and inquired respectfully, "Sir, can I ask you a question about your sermon?" The pastor graciously halted on his way to the car and gave the young parishioner his full attention. "Sure, son, what is it?"

The boy explained, "You said I could ask Jesus to come into my heart." "That's right," the pastor responded. "But Jesus is a man in a man's body," the little boy replied. "That's right," the pastor patiently answered. As a frown creased his brow, the youngster persisted, "But I'm just a little boy."

The pastor gravely nodded, "That's right."

The puzzled look on the young boy's face betrayed his total ignorance of the truth he was about to utter. "But if I'm just a little boy and Jesus is a man, if he comes into me, he'll be sticking out all over."

"That's right," the pastor agreed with a knowing smile.

From "Just Give Me Jesus" by Anne Graham Lotz.

Is the character of Christ in the forefront of your life so that others see Jesus "sticking out all over?"
