Thought for the Week – from Caroline

Mark 10:18 "Why do you call me good?" Jesus answered. "No one is good except God alone..."

A surprising amount of people I talk to think that they will automatically go to heaven because they have led a good life. To them a good life means they haven't murdered, raped, or pillaged (stolen with force or violence) and on the whole they can't see why they wouldn't go to heaven. They also say, "Why should I go to church? I don't need to." I'm thinking where do I start with all this, there's so much they need to know. I want to tell them the devil wants to keep them away from God and in the dark, but that's too heavy, too soon, they will just think I'm potty. I do ask, "If your goodness will get you to heaven why did Jesus need to die as he did?" They may say, "Well he died for everybody." Yes but, "Why?" I say.

I then have to try to explain what sin is and how there is not a single person on the earth who hasn't sinned in some form or other, in thought, word or deed. Then try to explain that sin has consequences and deserves judgment and punishment. If we don't believe in Jesus and say sorry we will stand before God and face the judgment for our sins and we will NOT enter heaven. It's a choice of life or death. This is too big a subject for just a thought, there is so much more I want to say. But please, if possible, don't let your friends and family think they will automatically go to heaven when they die.
